AUSTRALIA'S BEST

WELCOME FROM RNA PRESIDENT DAVID THOMAS

After an unprecedented and challenging 2020 and 2021, the RNA is delighted to be staging our historic Royal Queensland Show (Ekka) presented by RACQ from August 6-14.

It is thrilling to bring the country once again to the city in a celebration of agriculture, to recognise and reward the best of the best and to showcase all the traditional and unique Ekka experiences the public know and love.

Everything from strawberry sundaes, to showbags, 10,000 animals, sideshow alley, kids' carnival, baby animals, fireworks, the Grand Parade, incredible food, toe-tapping music, and world-class entertainment will fill the Brisbane Showgrounds for nine incredible days.

Following such a significant time of change and upheaval, we look forward to showcasing more than 20,000 competition entries across 11,000 classes in 55 wide-ranging competition sections.

To ensure the Show remains affordable for all, there are discounted ticket offers available to ekka.com.au subscribers. We are also offering more Super Saver discount days than ever before with a further 20% off on Monday 8, Tuesday 9, Thursday 11, and Friday 12 August.

To manage daily capped numbers, tickets are only available online and people must nominate the day they wish to attend the Show.

The RNA has been overwhelmed by the wonderful community sentiment for the Show: our members, exhibitors, competitors, and the public can't wait to welcome the return of the Ekka.

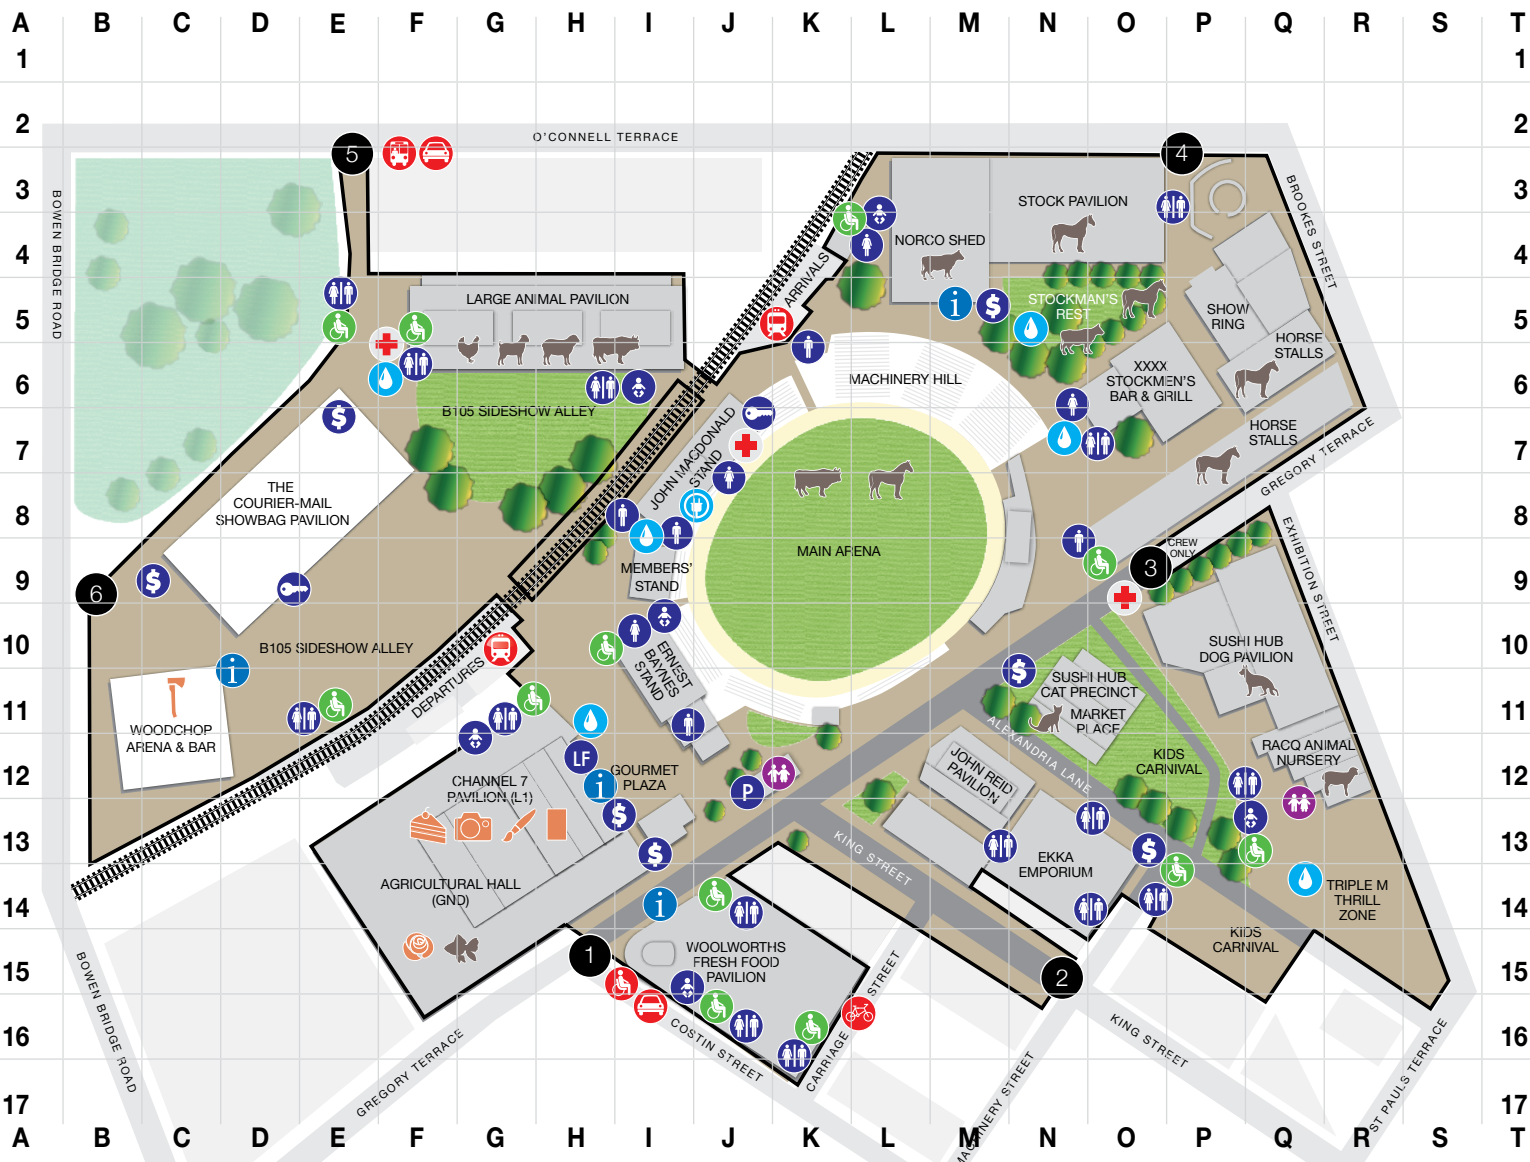

The theme of our world-class night Show this year is 'it's time to celebrate', recognising the people of Queensland coming back together again to celebrate our great state.

Ekka coming back is vitally important as it reconnects city and country after such challenging times.

The RNA sincerely appreciates your ongoing support for the Show, and we look forward to welcoming you to our very special Ekka in the coming days.

EKKA FAMILIES

DOUG, REB-EKKA AND CELEBRATING FAMILY TRADITIONS

The Royal Queensland Show is synonymous with 'family'. Most of us have our own stories to tell and Ekka memories as vivid as if they happened yesterday.

The Ekka connection often extends through generations of family members. Stories and secret recipes are shared, showbag guides circled and highlighted, and children and grandchildren 'learn the ropes' of preparing an exhibit or competition entry.

The anticipation of the show each August is different for everyone, young and old, from city and country, but the feeling is real.

In recognition and celebration of Ekka family traditions and storytelling, we're going to tell you the story of the Levingston Family.

This story starts with Douglas Levingston, who passed away peacefully at age 95 on what would have been the final day of Ekka 2020 (16 August), if the Show had in fact gone ahead. As his son Brad said in Doug's eulogy... "it was in some ways fitting that the show could not go ahead, given Doug was unable to attend this year".

Doug's association with Ekka was both professional and personal. His parents

Joseph and Annie were regular attendees and RNA Members through the 1920s and 1930s, so Doug was introduced to the Ekka as a young boy. His grandmother Catherine Beverley was a horsewoman who rode for Ernest Baynes in the 1890s.

In the late 1940s Doug joined the Queensland Police Force where he served until the late '70s. Doug spent many hours at the Showgrounds over this time, always volunteering to perform his police duties at Ekka, as well as the RNA Speedway at the time.

In those days, the more senior policemen

Doug Levingston

Please remain seated whilst ride is in operation from the bush would be transported to Brisbane to help-out at the Show – a true merging of country and city. Doug would explain that you could always spot the bush coppers as they wore Khaki uniforms and the city police wore their blues, and how it was great to have them there.

Doug could not get enough of the Ekka and as he and wife Evelyn welcomed each of their four children, Doug was eager to share the Ekka with them too.

The Levingston family continued to grow, with eight grandchildren and 12 great grandkids.

One of the grandchildren is well-known Ekka enthusiast and ABC Brisbane radio presenter, Rebecca Levingston.

On 19 August 2005, ABC's then morning presenter, Spencer Howson, captured Rebecca's first trip to the Ekka alongside her grandfather. Doug was 80 years of age at the time and had only missed one show in all these years - in 1941 due to the war.

During this interview, Doug pulled from his jacket pocket silhouettes of each of his children, cut by iconic exhibitor John Ross, who in this year was celebrating his 57th Ekka. Just days after this interview, John Ross was awarded the 2005 Ekka Legend Award by the RNA Council for recognition of his contribution to the Show.

Rebecca fell in love with the Ekka on this day and has been a recognised voice of the show ever since. Like her grandfather, Rebecca is always the first to put her hand up to cover the Ekka; happy to mix work with the show. A true storyteller, Rebecca is looking forward to broadcasting live for ABC radio at Ekka 2022.

Rebecca's passion for the Royal Queensland Show is abundantly obvious to her listeners who relish the sounds and colourful descriptions from Rebecca as she throws herself into the Ekka fun.

The Levingstons are one of our many special Ekka families who have contributed, and continue to contribute, to the unique fabric of the show in their own distinctive way.

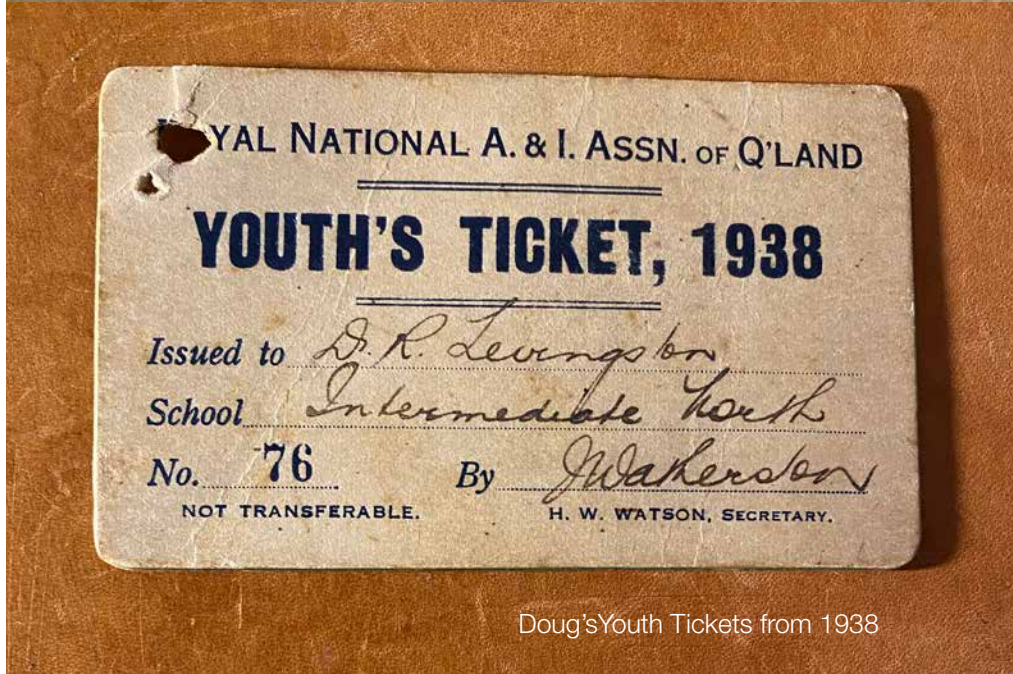

Thank you, Doug and family, for your special contribution.

The Levingstons have collected their memories of Ekka: from a 1937 entry ticket to Member badges across the years and much more – an extensive collection that will be on display at this year's Show.

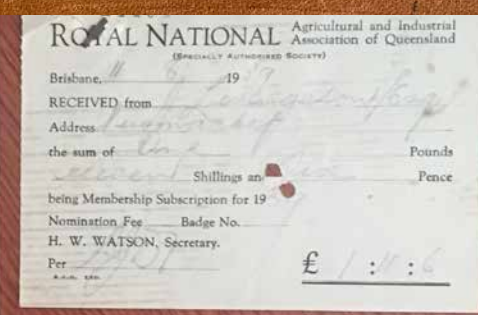

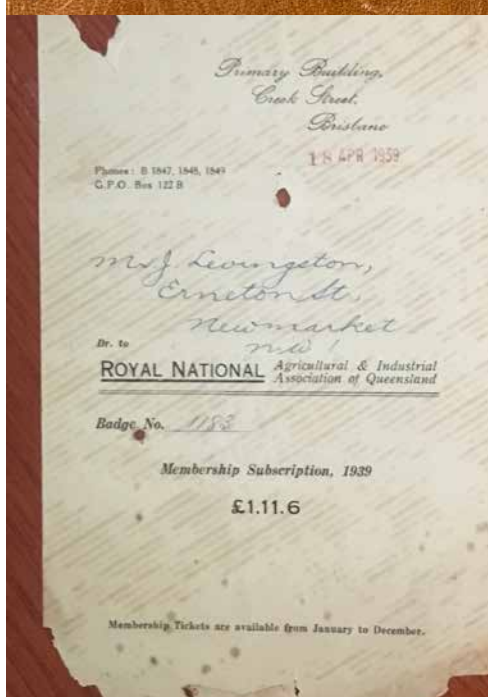

See the Levingston Family Ekka memorabilia at the Heritage Display on the upper level at the Channel 7 Pavilion.
